FREE one-hour consultation to discuss your company's IP needs

Keltie is based in London but operates globally. Our teams of patent and trade mark practitioners have decades of experience handling intellectual property matters across all business sectors and industries.

We act for many household names, entrepreneurial individuals, start-ups, spin-outs and large corporations who wish to identify, establish, manage and protect their IP in the UK, Europe and worldwide.

We handle patent work for clients ranging from start-ups to automotive multinationals, in technologies ranging from materials science to software. Trade marks and designs are also specialisms, beside more general IP consulting services including IP audits.

We take pride in the enduring quality of our work and in the practicality of our advice. For us, IP is not an academic exercise: it is all about commercial advantage.

If you would like to discuss any requirements you may have in relation to IP, do please get in touch. We can arrange a convenient meeting or a telephone call with an attorney from our automotive team. The initial discussion would be on a no-charge, no-commitment basis. You should maintain confidentiality until we advise otherwise.
