

LITESTRUCTURES TEAMS UP WITH ASTON MARTIN RACING

Litestructures, who are manufacturers of lightweight demountable structures for use in the racing pit lane and garages are delighted to have been appointed Technical Partners of Aston Martin Racing during their bid to win the Le Mans 24 hour race in June of this year.

Litestructures Sales Director Lee Brooks stated: "it is a real privilege for our company to be associated with Aston Martin Racing in this way. The Aston Martin marque is synonymous with tradition, heritage quality and performance through design, all attributes which Litestructures have engendered in what we do. As part of our partnership we intend to promote our company and products through this powerful association, and have offered the prize of a beautiful Aston Martin V8 Vantage Roadster to our overseas distributor who puts in the best performance over the coming months. At the same time, we very much look forward to helping Aston Martin Racing put in the best performance possible at Le Mans this summer."

Commercial Manager of Aston Martin Racing, Sadie Wigglesworth said "Team presentation and performance off the track is totally integral to a successful race team competing at the highest level. We are delighted to be partnering Litestructures this year, who are well respected for the integrity of the products that they offer into the racing world. We will work together to further enhance the Aston Martin Racing brand in the pit lane and the garage environment."
